McCarthy Claims Army Counsel Used Threats

Says Was Warned
Subcommittee
Might Be Wrecked

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy testified today that Army counselor John G. Adams warned him last January that the McCarthy subcommittee might be "wrecked" if it didn't cancel subpoenas for members of the Army Loyalty Board.

He charged Adams used a "combination of salesmanship and threats" in a "blackmail" attempt to get him to abandon efforts to call members of the board before the subcommittee for questioning. McCarthy charged that the threats were made the night of Jan. 22, when Adams spent three hours visiting McCarthy's home.

He said Adams warned he would release a report charging that Roy M. Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel, was using "improper influence" to get special treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, unpaid McCarthy subcommittee consultant until he was drafted last Nov. 3.

McCarthy called it Adams' "boldest threat."

"He told me," said McCarthy, "that if the Cohn-Schine report might wreck the committee... that it would be better to cancel the call to the loyalty board members than wreck the committee."

McCarthy SAYS STEVENS
"GOT SHOVED" INTO FIGHT

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy testified today he believes Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens was a political novice who "got shoved" into his public fight with McCarthy.

Testifying under oath in what Special Counsel Ray H. Jenkins called the "twilight of this drama" of the Army-McCarthy hearings, McCarthy said he considered Stevens "a very honest man."

or has previously denied under oath — was the high point of McCarthy's direct testimony at the 31st day of the Army-McCarthy hearings.

Special counsel Ray H. Jenkins ended his friendly-toned direct examination of McCarthy as the hearing recessed for lunch. McCarthy faced cross-examination by Jenkins in the afternoon session.

McCarthy in his direct testimony contradicted several sworn statements of Adams and Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens. He testified:

1. Stevens and Adams both tried to steer his subcommittee into investigations of the other services in order to "take the spotlight" off the Army. Both of the Army officials have denied doing it.

2. Stevens was responsible for having his photograph — the now-famous "doctored" photo — made with Schine last Nov. 17 at Me-

Two Former Local Men Admit Vienna Area Burglaries

Two former Harrisburg men held for the past three weeks in the Johnson county jail at Vienna have confessed their part in burglaries in that area.

They are Charles Casteel and Tommy Gene Gibbs. Both are held in jail upon their failure to supply bond in the amount of $5,000 each.

Both had stoutly maintained their innocence until Johnson county authorities obtained a lie detector from the state. Just before they were to be examined they said they would talk without benefit of the apparatus.

They confessed, State's Attorney Donald R. Mitchell stated, that they were with Jess Abner Jr. and his brother, Stanley, when the Murrie-Abbot Tractor Sales was burglarized and took part in the Amos Carter service station and garage burglary, and in a household burglary, all in Vienna. They also admitted taking part in the burglary of the Corno feed store in Metropolis and Gibbs confessed taking part in armed robberies in Pope county.

The Abners are held at Metropolis on a forgery charge.

No Duty for Congress to Oust Reds: Meek

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — Joseph T. Meek, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, says the "duty" of getting Communists out of government isn't that of Congress but of the executive branch.

Meek's view was disclosed today in a letter he wrote to a special committee set up to receive suggested planks for the 1954 Illinois Republican platform.

"Cleaning out Communists in government is not the duty of the congressional committees," Meek said. "It is the sacred duty of every department head in every department involving national security."

"If these heads do not do the cleaning up, we must get someone who will," Meek wrote.

"We are past the point of temporizing and of making a public spectacle of the whole matter. Let's come to grips when it counts."

Asks Civil Service Changes
Meek said he feels the party's platform should be drawn up at the state GOP convention here Saturday, should "sin on the side of omission—not addition." He urged platform makers to "avoid the use of names" like "McCarthy, Brickley, Taft-Hartley."

Meek called for changes in federal civil service laws to make possible the dismissal of "the vast number of insolently impeding New Deal holdovers in protected jobs."

He said the Eisenhower administration should be commended for the "instilling of integrity, Christianity and dignity" in the White House, for "substantial" tax cuts, reductions in payrolls, and a "bloodless prosperity."

Meek said the platform ought to be an "indictment" of "20 years of New Deal misrule" and of "Roosevelt-Truman-Acheson foreign policy."

The letter was made public by three members of the GOP "pre-convention" committee, which will submit suggested platform planks to the convention resolutions committee Friday night.

Federal Jury Report Charges Wide Corruption By Union Leaders

ST. LOUIS (UP) — A federal grand jury, which has indicted 38 union or former union men in eastern Missouri and southern Illinois.

It did so with U. S. District Judge George H. Moore's warning that its record so far "is not much more than a beginning."

The investigation reached a mile post Tuesday when the grand jury issued an interim report charging widespread corruption.

It charged that a few men hold a "great concentration of power" in unions here, that inadequate control and loose accounting of union funds is commonplace, that business agents practice discrimination in sending good workers to certain contractors and poor ones to others, and that some unions have tried to take the law into their hands through strike violence.

The jury's report singled out Harold J. Gibbons, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Teamsters Union, Local 688, as one of the men who has obtained a great concentration of power.

Gibbons, under indictment charging that he filed false financial reports with the Department of Labor, is also president of the Labor Health Institute, president of the Unity Welfare Association, and trustee of locals 405, 600, 610, 682, joint council No. 13, and the Missouri-Kansas conference of the teamsters' union.

Gibbons in only one of the top labor leaders to be indicted by grand juries studying labor racketeering. Larry Callanan, boss of the AFL steamfitters local, Leo F. Havey, business agent of the AFL Bricklayers Union, and Paul H. Hulahan, business agent for Local 42, AFL Building Laborers and Hod Carriers Union, are others.

Hulahan has already been convicted.

38 Indicted To Date

Less than a year ago, a St. Louis grand jury reported that conditions of labor racketeering, especially in the St. Louis area, were "worse than in any other place in the United States."

The jury said that many of the irregular practices uncovered in its 58-day investigation are not violations of federal law. It said that it will continue inquiry into matters which may lead to federal action.

"You have been very successful so far as you have gone," Moore told the jury after it issued the interim report "but it is not much more than a beginning."

"There is so much in the labor field, in racketeering, so much in the use of money in elections to inquire into," he said. "There is no substitute for vigilance."

Differences Hurt Allied Nations: Dulles

Secretary Addresses
Rotary International
Convention at Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles warned today that there may be "too much difference" between members of the non-Communist world.

"The degree of difference that is tolerable depends on the degree of peril, and there come times when differences must be voluntarily submerged," he said.

"Perhaps today there is too much difference between the members of the non-Communist world."

Dulles said the United States should not limit its cooperation to nations that agree with it on all points, because a free society implies differences of opinion.

"On the other hand, we must not be blind to the fact that differences can mount to a point where they become a real danger," he said.

Dulles made the statement in an address prepared for the annual convention of Rotary International, Discusses Indo Crisis

He did not say specifically where there may be too much difference of opinion, but he went on to discuss a number of world problems, including the Indochina crisis.

Dulles said the United States does not assume "any mandate to run the world" although it realizes it has world responsibilities that accompany its power.

"The United States does not believe that it can alone solve problems elsewhere," he said. "The possibilities of solution lie primarily with the peoples directly concerned."

Lists Specific Problems

Discussing specific problems, Dulles:

1. Warned that the time for European unity "is fast running out." He again noted that France and Italy have failed so far to ratify the European Defense Community (EDC) treaty and said if Western Europe is to remain divided "There may have to be a basic shift in United States policy."

He said, however, he believes such a shift will be unnecessary.

2. Warned that Communist attempts to get a foothold in the Western hemisphere are aimed at bringing to the Americas "the same forces which have brought war and captivity and misery to so many hundreds and millions in Europe and Asia."

3. Said the United States "will never fight for colonialism." He made the statement in connection with a United States pre-requisite for collective defense of southeast Asia that France assure the people of Indochina complete independence.

Housing: The House Rules committee recommended that the House reject the public housing program approved by the Senate. The Senate has voted for President Eisenhower's plan for construction of 140,000 public housing units over a four-year period. The legislation now goes before a House-Senate conference committee. The original House measure contained no public housing provision, and the Rules committee said the House should stand firm against it.

Compensation: Thomas Kennedy, vice president of the United Mine Workers, told the House Ways and Means committee that unemployment compensation should continue for the entire time a person is without a job. He asked liberalization of present law, which limits the compensation period to 26 weeks.

TV: Rep. Dwight L. Rogers (D-Fla.) introduced a resolution calling on the House and Senate to prohibit televising "of any hearing or other proceeding held by a committee of Congress." He said televising the Army-McCarthy hearings had caused the people to lose much of their respect for Congress.

Labor Rackets: The House Government Operations committee voted 17-11 to create a new subcommittee to investigate alleged labor union racketeering. Chairman Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich.) said he will appoint Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) chairman of the new group. The action makes it possible for Hoffman to serve on the subcommittee and control its expenditures.

Only 43 Pints of Blood Donated to Bloodmobile at Eldorado

Only 43 pints of blood were donated yesterday when the Red Cross Bloodmobile was in Eldorado. The quota was 175. Five people were rejected.

Harrisburg which had 114 pints Tuesday and Eldorado together did not meet one quota.

According to population, Saline county must have five visits of two days each during the year in order to provide free blood for the people in the county. The Red Cross hopes for a better response on August 10 and 11 when the bloodmobile will again be here.

Little Damage from Threatening Cloud;
.61 Inch of Rain

Yesterday's dark, threatening cloud that swept in quickly from the west was not as damaging as people feared when they saw it coming.

However, it brought with it .61 inch of rain. The fall at Galatia was .57 inch.

Reports reached here during the afternoon that a storm had done extensive damage at West Frankfort and McLeansboro but state police who went into these areas came back with reports the storms were no worse there than here.

Army Counsel Welch Is 'Tired, Sick' at McCarthy Attack on Young Attorney

WASHINGTON (UP) — Army special counsel Joseph N. Welch said today he has received some 1,000 telegrams about his dramatic reply to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's "reckless and cruel" attack on a young lawyer in his Boston firm.

Welch was asked after this morning's session of the Army-McCarthy hearing if the telegrams were predominantly in support of his action Wednesday. He said he had not read all of them, but "when people wire you I think it's fair to say they are favorable."

Welch said McCarthy's attack on the young attorney left him "tired and sick."

But he will not quit as the Army's special counsel in the Army-McCarthy hearings.

"You don't leave your client because of a thing like that," he said.

The 63-year-old attorney, whose humor and needling questions have become famous during the hearings, was visibly and deeply hurt. After McCarthy's explosive and unexpected attack on the young lawyer, Frederick G. Fisher, Welch's entire manner changed abruptly.

"I don't see how in the name of God you can fight anybody like McCarthy," he told reporters after the exchange Wednesday afternoon. "I never saw such cruelty... such arrogance." He was almost in tears as he spoke.

Statement Not New

McCarthy sent the spectacular hearings to their highest emotional pitch when he suddenly declared that Fisher belonged for "three or four years" to an organization "named as the legal bulwark of the Communist Party." He referred to the National Lawyers Guild.

The statement was not new since McCarthy said substantially the same thing in the formal charges he filed against the Army April 21. But when it was repeated publicly before the TV cameras it produced drama and pathos.

"Until this moment, Senator," Welch said slowly and with feeling, "I think I never really gauged your cruelty or your wickedness... Little did I dream you could be so reckless and so cruel as to do an injury to that lad."

Quit Guild in 1950

Actually, Fisher joined the guild in 1947, graduated from Harvard in 1948, and quit the guild in 1950. The senior partner of his firm, C. Keefe Hurley, called him a man of "unquestioned" integrity. The Newton Republican city committee offered its complete support.

McCarthy said he "hesitated" bringing up the Fisher matter but he said he had been "rather bored with Welch's phony request to Cohn here that he personally get every Communist out of government before sundown. Therefore, we will give you information about the young man in your organization."

McCarthy also said Welch had tried to foist Fisher on the subcommittee as an assistant counsel for the investigation. But Acting Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) quickly denied this.

Welch told McCarthy "You have sat within six feet of me and could have asked me about Fred Fisher... If there is a God in heaven it will do neither you nor your cause any good. I will not discuss it further."

Major Policy
Speech Tonight
By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower will call for public support for his legislative program tonight in his first major policy speech in nearly two months.

The White House refused to give any details. But there was speculation that the chief executive might also discuss the explosive Indochina crisis and possible U. S. involvement.

Observers noted it is unusual for the President to make an important radio-television address on such short public notice—less than 48 hours. They also pointed out that it comes hard on the heels of Wednesday's meeting of the National Security Council.

Mr. Eisenhower will speak before a meeting of the District of Columbia Citizens For Eisenhower committee—a 1952 campaign organization—between 9 and 10 p. m. EDT. Most major networks planned some coverage.

The President is described as extremely anxious to get the bulk of his ambitious legislative program through Congress before it adjourns, possibly by July 31. He told his news conference last Wednesday that he would take every opportunity to discuss it with members of Congress and the public.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) are among the other guests scheduled to speak on tonight's program.

New Interest Shown
In Oil Leasing

Oil leasing has taken on a new interest in the northwest corner of Saline county since the Leash Drilling Co., brought in a well last Monday on the farm of Atty. Paul A. Jones of Benton. Jones reports that oil flowed from the well before casing pipe could be set.

The Paul Jones No. 1 is in the NE corner of the SW quarter of the NW quarter of Section 19, Tate township.

One oil drilling permit was issued for Saline county this week at Springfield. It went to the John Stelle Associates for the Cloud Brown et al Communized Unit No. 1, in the SE corner of the NW quarter of Section 20, Eldorado township.

President Says He Will Not Ask For Authority

Believes Nation in Serious Situation
By Communist Threat

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today he has no plan now to ask Congress for authority to intervene in Indochina.

But he added at his weekly news conference that the United States is in a truly serious situation as far as the Communist world threat is concerned.

The President went on to say, however, that he thinks his military budget is now large enough.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked whether he thought it would be feasible to ask Congress, before it adjourns, to vote him standby authority to intervene in Indochina if he deems intervention necessary.

He replied that he has no such plan at this moment. He said any such thing would have to come up at the crest of some crisis. He again gave reassurance that he would ask Congress for authority before committing U. S. forces in Indochina.

Situation is Truly Serious

Mr. Eisenhower was asked for comment on a recent statement by Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, that past dangers facing the United States have been trivial compared to the present world situation.

Mr. Eisenhower said he does not like to make flat comparison in such matters. But he said he does believe we are in truly serious situation.

He said the Iron Curtain countries have achieved great unification through use of force, threats, corruption, bribery, propaganda, and the knife in the back. Such methods, he said, have enabled the Reds to pick their objectives and strike when they want to, whereas the non-aggressive Free World has to be alert everywhere to defend itself against possible Red aggression.

Might Last 40 Years

The President said the serious international situation might last as long as 40 years.

He said he believes the best U. S. military plan is to keep mobile forces centralized and ready to move when vital American interests are threatened. He said defense expenditures are going to have to remain large for a long time. But they must not be permitted to get so large, he said, that a representative form of government would not be possible.

On other subjects, Mr. Eisenhower told reporters:

1. He still supports all Republican candidates as a basic principle because he believes the President's party should have control of Congress if it is to be responsible. But he added that he hoped the reporter who asked the question would not be specific as to candidates because it might be embarrassing to the President.

2. He believes the United States should give its Acheson more military information. He added that his international atoms-for-peace plan should be pushed regardless of whether Russia goes along on it. He said last week that Russia had closed the door on hope of early agreement on the plan.

3. He considers that reserve officers of the Armed Services, as well as those on active duty, commit a reprehensible act when they participate in the unauthorized distribution of secret and confidential information. Mr. Eisenhower said all members of the Armed Services, both officers and enlisted men, should show an unquestioned readiness to obey military laws and the constitution.

Ike's Honeymoon is Over,
Congress Falters on Program

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Eisenhower political honeymoon is now definitely over. The President's personal popularity still remains high, according to the polls.
But it has slipped from approval
by three fourths of the people as
of last September, to just over half.

If the 1954 congressional elections
were held tomorrow, many political observers believe the Republicans might lose control of Congress — very definitely in the House, possibly in the Senate.

The situation could change in the next five months. It is conceded by Republican National Committee Chairman Leonard Hall that the determining factor in this, as in any election, will be whether
the voters feel they are better off
on election day than they were before the last election.

Early in his administration,
President Eisenhower declared that the test would be over the enactment of a dynamic and progressive program recognized as good for all the American people.
That is where Congress has not so far delivered.

BLAME IT ON lack of Republican cooperation with the President or outright Democratic sabotage, whichever you choose. The end result is that too many of the President's life-saving projects
have had to be tossed overboard,
to lighten ship.

A lot of legislation is still going to be rescued in the two or three months remaining in this session of Congress. But there is not time enough to cruise around and recover all the legislative driftwood still floating on the sea of political confusion.

The foreign economic program,
with a three-year extension of reciprocal trade agreements, has been sacrificed for another simple one-year extension. This is considered better than nothing.

Giving the vote to 18-year-olds
has been defeated.

Increase of the minimum wage
has been abandoned.

Alaskan and Hawaiian statehood
appear doomed.

A compromise farm program is in the making. If no new farm legislation is passed, it will mean that the flexible price supports go back into effect automatically. This may be considered an Administration victory, but it will make a lot of farmers mad.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLAN for a series of educational conferences
to lay out new federal and state
school policies has been killed.

Many measures, like legalized
wire-tapping, increase of federal debt limitation, housing legislation and so on, have passed the House but are hung up in the Senate. Too much Senate time has been devoted to the Bricker constitutional amendment to redefine
the President's treaty-making powers, and the Army-McCarthy hearings.

The latter probably gives the Administration a permanent black eye since no good can possibly come out of it, even if it ends in a whitewash report for both sides.

Listing all the positive accomplishments of the Administration
somehow does not seem to balance
these negative aspects.

A general tax reform bill is going to be passed. It will ultimately provide a $7 billion tax cut—biggest in history. The Social Security system is going to be expanded, in spite of Republican opposition.

The St. Lawrence seaway has been approved. A billion-dollar federal highway bill has been passed. The budget has been cut and will be cut further. Some kind of a health program will get through. The atomic energy act will be revised, somehow. Last year, controls were ended.

THIS IS NO RECORD to be ashamed of. But it is still not impressive enough to set people cheering. In addition to which,
unemployment is still too high.
The cost of living may have been stabilized, but it has not been brought down appreciably.

Democratic votes have helped pass a number of the President's proposals, but Democratic carping
at the President has increased. It is pitched on Republican charges
of "treason" in the Democratic administrations, on opposition to the tax program, on national defense cutbacks, on national power
policy and on a now-reversed complaint that there is not enough bipartisan cooperation on foreign policy.

What hurts the Eisenhower administration worse than this Democratic criticism, however, is the sniping by Republican extremist groups. They include the high tariff advocates, opponents of the Administration's social security proposals, the isolationists. And last but not least, there is Senator McCarthy's fight with the Administration. It's small wonder stories are being heard that Ike won't run again.

To Dedicate Bronze Statue of Lincoln At New Salem State Park on June 21

The bronze likeness of a young frontiersman, eyes steady and somber, the lines of the face already faintly drawn, lines that would become deeply etched through years
of personal tragedy and unequalled responsibility will be unveiled at impressive dedication ceremonies in New Salem State Park at 2:30
p. m. June 21.

On that date, Abraham Lincoln
returns to the little village which he called home for six of the most formative years of his life. It returns in the form of a magnificent nine-
foot statue created by internationally famous sculptor Avard Fairbanks, dean of the college of fine arts at the University of Utah, to dominate the entrance of the Park
as once he dominated the life and thought of the Nation.

Governor William G. Stratton will accept on behalf of the people of Illinois this remarkable gift from the Sons of the Utah Pioneers. The governor has appointed a distinguished commission of 35 members to arrange for the dedication ceremonies. Wayne C. Townley, Bloomington attorney, and a past president of the Illinois Historical society, was named chairman of the Lincoln Statue Commission.
Robert G. Mjely, Galatia, Superintendent of Parks and Memorials, is general secretary.

The National Society of Sons of Utah Pioneers, donors of the statue
are Mormons, descendants of forefathers who were burned out of their homes in Nauvoo, Illinois,
and driven across the frozen Mississippi in 1846. The fact of their return to Illinois bearing a gift is a testimonial to Abraham Lincoln's philosophy "with malice towards none" and is a remarkable tribute to Lincoln's dream of a united nation.

The gift was inspired largely by
Mr. Nicholas G. Morgan Sr. of Salt Lake City, Utah, president of the National Society of Sons of Utah
Pioneers. An ardent admirer of Abraham Lincoln since early childhood, he relates that during a visit to Springfield and New Salem in 1951 his first reaction was that "it was the most precious historical memorial in America." Mr.
Morgan felt that it lacked one thing
— a statue of the young railsplitter
as he was about to mount his horse and journey to Springfield
that 27th day of April, 1837, with all his earthly possessions in two sacks
slung over the horse, back of the saddle, and under his right arm a large worn copy of Blackstone's
"Commentaries."

Immediately upon his return to Salt Lake City, he contacted Dr.
Fairbanks, and discussed with him
the possibility of creating such a statue. It was then that Mr. Morgan learned that Dr. Fairbanks
had already created a Lincoln statue,
titled "Lincoln—The Frontiers-
man," which adorns the campus
of the Ewa Plantation school in the Hawaiian Islands.

India Makes Plans For Atomic Center

NEW DELHI — (AP) — The Indian
Planning Commission has approved
a plan for development of atomic energy in India during the next four years.

The Indian Atomic Energy will
now build an atomic energy center
at Trombay, about 15 miles from the center of Bombay.

The AEC is studying the type of atomic reactor to be built. A study group of the AEC has visited various research centers in Europe to compare suitable reactors.

The AEC is now building a pilot plant to extract uranium from the tailings of the Indian Copper Corporation's mines and also to treat
ores from the commission's prospecting.

The AEC is also surveying the monazite sands found in Travancore-Cochin for more precise estimates of what is available in India.

First Bombardiers

The Italian army is said to have been the first to employ aerial bombing as a part of its offensive,
its pilots showering enemy troops
with crude, hand-thrown bombs
while attacking Tripoli in 1912.

MRS. ROBERT BERNHARDT

Evansville Home Economist Makes Perfect Cake with Mrs. Tucker's Creamier Shortening!

"I have baked lots of cakes before, but this was the first time I had ever used Mrs. Tucker's Shortening," says Mrs. Robert Bernhardt, 2812 Belmeade Ave., Evansville, Ind., of her recent test baking. "For the test I tried a yellow cake recipe, and it turned out as fine a layer cake as anyone could want! I especially noted how quickly and easily Mrs. Tucker's ALL-Vegetable Shortening creamed and mixed, and how moist and tender the finished cake was."

Here's Mrs. Tucker's amazing triple guarantee — If you don't say: "(1) Mrs. Tucker's makes any bread or cake richer, more moist and tender... (2) any pastry lighter and flakier... (3) any fried foods tastier and more digestible," send the recipe to Mrs. Tucker telling what you don't like about the results, and she will pay you for all the ingredients used PLUS a dollar for your time.

Yellow Cake

2½ cups sifted cake flour
3 tbsps. double action baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1½ cups sugar

½ cup MRS. TUCKER'S SHORTENING
1 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs, unbeaten

Measure flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar into sifter. Stir MRS. TUCKER'S Shortening just to soften. Sift in dry ingredients. Add ¾ cup milk and the vanilla. Mix until flour is dampened. Then beat 300 strokes by hand, or 2 minutes in a mixer (at low speed).

Add eggs and remaining milk. Beat 150 strokes by hand, or 1 minute in mixer (at a low speed). (Count only actual beating strokes or time. Scrape bowl and spoon or beater often.)

Four batter into two 9 x 1½ inch layer pans. Bake in moderate oven (375°) 20 to 25 minutes. Cool cake in pans on racks 10 minutes. Loosen from sides. Turn out, cool right-side up. Frost as desired.

The ONLY Shortening That's TRIPLE GUARANTEED!

To Die on Gallows Tonight for 'Almost Perfect' Murder

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A New York businessman who committed the "almost perfect" murder of his wife in a fake auto accident spent his last hours calmly today waiting to die on the gallows shortly after midnight.

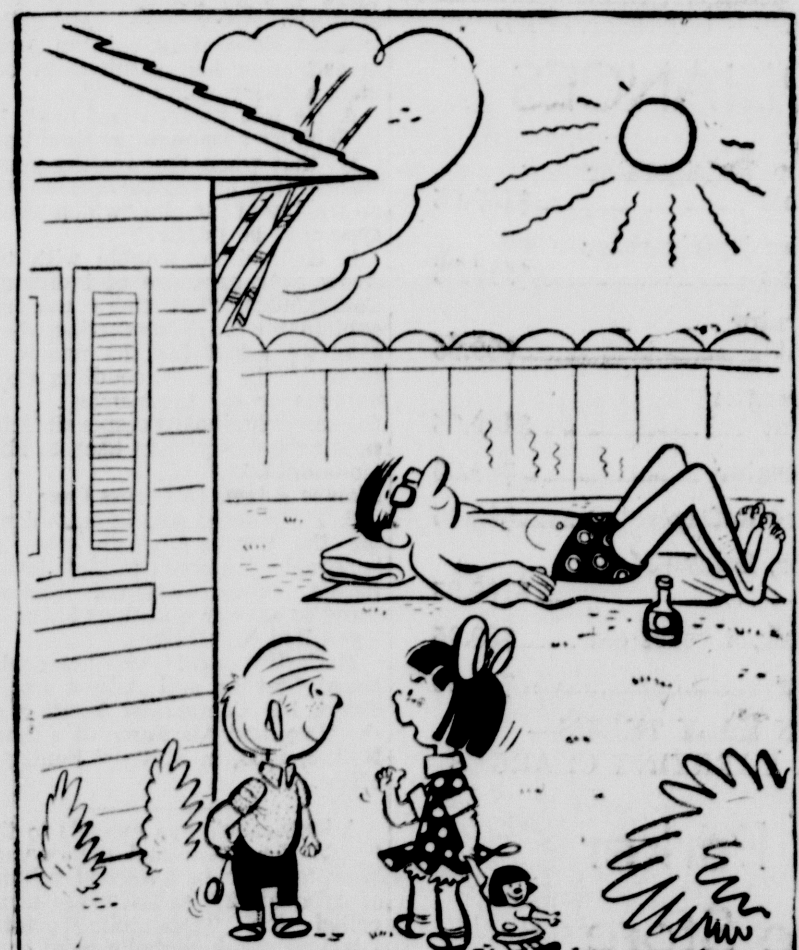

Officials at the Maryland State Penitentiary said G. Edward Grammer, a former office manager, is holding up "very good."

Grammer, 37, was convicted of killing his wife in 1952 for the love of a pretty United Nations employee. The victim was found in the wreckage of an automobile at the foot of a steep hill.

Guire Air Force Base, N. J. Mc- Carthy said the Army secretary specifically invited Schine into the picture. The senator's version con- tradicted Stevens' testimony and other reports on the episode given by Maj. Gen. Cornelius E. Ryan and a McGuire public information officer, photographer who took the picture.

Says Adams in Error
3. Adams gave erroneous testi- mony when he told the Army-Mc- Carthy investigators earlier that there was no homosexuality at a Southern Army base. McCarthy, without elaborating, said an Army investigation had resulted in one man, a major, going to prison.

4. He told Stevens last Sept. 16, in Schine's apartment at New York City, that when the wealthy youth was drafted he (McCarthy) wanted no treatment for him "which would appear to be unfair."

5. He had no trouble with the Army over exposure of individual Communists, "but there was un- explainable... consternation when- ever we asked for the names of those in the Army coddling Com- munist or for the names... of the screening board responsible for sending security risks back to Fort Monmouth."

Blames Adams in Persec Case
6. He believes Adams is to blame for the decision which gave an honorable discharge to Maj. Irving Peress, ex-Army dentist who re- fused to answer questions about al- leged Red connections.

McCarthy said he personally heard Stevens and Adams try to divert his Communist hunting to the Navy and Air Force at a lunch Nov. 6, 1953, in Stevens' Pentagon office.

Carrier Mills High To Hold Summer Recreation Program

All boys aged 9 to 19, residing within the Carrier Mills Community high school district No. 103, are invited to sign up for an eight-week summer recreation program, Principal Warren G. Jennings announced today.

The program will consist of baseball, volleyball and table tennis.

Three age divisions are contemplated—9 to 12, 12 to 15 and 15 to 19.

About 15 to 20 boys in each age group have already been contacted regarding the program and have selected the following times—aged 15 to 19, 2 p. m.; aged 12 to 15, 10 a. m. and aged 9 to 12, 4 p. m.

Boys interested in the program should report at the CMCHS athletic field at one of the above times so that team rosters can be completed and schedules arranged for baseball.

Each team will play 2 to 3 games per week for an 18-game schedule by July 30.

On days a team is not scheduled for baseball, a member may invite one parent or friend as a guest for volleyball and/or table tennis during their regular hours.

Carrier Mills coach Claude E. Shelton will be recreational supervisor.

Eden Tells Red Bloc West Will Not Meet Terms

GENEVA (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today told the Communist bloc in the Indo-China peace conference that if their position remains unchanged, it is the duty of the conference to admit to the world that "we have failed."

Eden made it clear to Russia, Red China and the Communist Viet Minh of Indochina that there can be no point in continuing the fruitless negotiations here, if the Reds insist on terms the West cannot possibly accept.

Eden and U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith were reported in complete agreement on Indochina at a private meeting preceding Eden's speech.

Attempts by Soviet Russia and Communist China to partition Laos and Cambodia, which with Viet Nam make up the Associated States of Indochina, dropped the cease-fire discussions to their lowest point in 46 days.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov dashed the West's hopes for an early end to the seven-year war Tuesday when he listed the Communists' unacceptable conditions for peace.

Red Chinese Premier—Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai parroted Molotov's tirade Wednesday at another disappointing session and plunged peace efforts to a new low by accusing the French government of designing to prolong the war with American aid.

Chou sniped at French Premier Joseph Laniel's government at a time when the cabinet was fighting for its life. Laniel called for a vote of confidence and observers feared that the Molotov-Chou one-two punch would be strong enough to topple the government.

Chou said armed forces in Laos and Cambodia must be regrouped, with the Communist Indochinese getting part of the country if there is to be peace. He also demanded that the neutral armistice supervisory commission must include Communists or "agreement is impossible."

Judges Set Boundaries For Sanitary Sewer District at Joppa

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP)—Three judges have set boundaries for sanitary sewer district at nearby Joppa, which will include about one-half of the land occupied by the multi-million dollar Joppa steam power plant.

Residents of the area now will be able to hold an election on a $250,000 bond issue to finance a sewer system.

Circuit Judges Clarence E. Wright and Ross Reynolds and County Judge Carl Smith announced Wednesday their decision on a petition from Joppa residents for determination of the sewer district limits.

Wheat Allotment for Farms with No Grain for Three Years

Farmers on land on which no wheat was seeded for grain for all of the years 1952, 1953 and 1954 may apply for a 1955 wheat acreage allotment, according to Raymond Alvey, chairman of the Saline County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. To be considered for an allotment on a farm which had no wheat seeded for grain for any of these years, the farmer must apply in writing to his county ASC committee by June 30, 1954.

Blank application forms are available at the county ASC office located in the city hall, Harrisburg, for use in filing requests for allotments.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

Both Sides Declare Truce in Roosevelt Legal Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—James Roosevelt's sensational legal battle with his estranged wife neared a possible settlement today on the heels of his resounding California primary victory.

Both sides declared a "scandal truce" Wednesday by calling off the "scandal dogs" in the case. Mrs. Roosevelt has accused him of being unfaithful with nine society women.

The late President's "balding eldest son won a landslide victory in his bid for the Democratic nomination in the 26th congressional district."

Neither Roosevelt nor his estranged wife, Romelle, would say whether their peace overtures had anything to do with his political triumph.

Called off were Roosevelt's filing of an answer to his wife's separate maintenance suit and his deposition on her charges of adultery.

U. S. Asks Red China to Free 83 Americans

GENEVA (AP)—The United States today formally asked Red China to release 83 Americans imprisoned or detained in the Communist country.

Included on the list were Richard Applegate, NBC newscaster and former United Press correspondent and Donald Dixon, International News Service correspondent.

The formal request for the release of the Americans was made public in a brief official announcement.

It said the U. S. ambassador to Prague, U. Alexis Johnson met an unidentified representative of Red China in the second attempt to gain freedom for the Americans through direct negotiations.

The United States has made it clear that the direct contact does not in any way represent recognition of the Chinese Communist regime.

The Chinese informed Johnson that mail addressed to imprisoned civilians in care of "The Red Cross Society of China, Peking (Peiping)" China "would be delivered to them and that the prisoners would be permitted to send letters home through the same channel."

The two sides agreed to meet again on June 15.

British Yacht Is Missing Off Red China Coast

HONG KONG (AP)—A British Navy pleasure yacht with nine sailors aboard was four days overdue off the Red China coast today, touching off fears it was captured or sunk by the Communists.

The Royal Navy said the 72-foot yacht Elinor sailed June 1 for Tolo Harbor, nine miles north of Hong Kong, near the Red China mainland, and was scheduled to return here last Sunday. It had one officer and eight British seamen aboard.

Informed sources said an extensive air and sea search showed no trace of the yacht, which had been given to the Navy for recreation of seamen and had berths for 12 persons.

The disappearance recalled the capture 15 months ago by the Chinese Communists of two American newsmen and a Merchant Marine captain sailing from Hong Kong to Macau on a small yacht.

The three were Richard Applegate of the National Broadcasting Company, a former war correspondent for the United Press in Korea, Donald Dixon of the International News Service and Capt. Ben Kravner. They were jailed by the Reds.

Visit to Lincoln Shrines Suggested In 'See Illinois Now' Travel Program

SEE ILLINOIS NOW—Visit your scenic and historic Illinois State Parks and Memorials. No. 1, Mississippi Palisades, 2 miles north of Savanna in Carroll county, is a series of lofty bluffs overlooking the Mississippi River. No. 2, Chain-O-Lakes, near Woodstock, provides boating, fishing and swimming. No. 3, Springfield, Capital of Illinois, site of the Lincoln Home and Tomb, and home of the Illinois State Fair. No. 4, Grand Marais, near East St. Louis, offers a wide variety of facilities ranging from boating and fishing to a fine golf course. No. 5, Red Hills, near Lawrenceville, provides 800 acres of scenic, picnic and recreational areas.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — "Land of Lincoln" is the descriptive slogan often applied to the state of Illinois by residents of the state and by persons in other parts of the nation and the world.

The slogan appears on the license plates of 3,000,000 Illinois motor vehicles. It is used by the state Division of Department Reports in publicizing the beauty and natural resources of Illinois.

And while the state as a whole basks in the reflected glory of Abraham Lincoln, the heart of the "Land of Lincoln" is the Springfield and New Salem area near the center of the Prairie State.

It was in Springfield that Lincoln had the only home he ever owned. It was from Springfield that he left for Washington 93 years ago to become President of the United States. It is in Springfield that he is buried in the beautiful Lincoln monument.

A visit to the Lincoln shrines in Springfield is suggested this week by Governor William G. Stratton in connection with the "See Illinois Now" travel program that is being sponsored by a group of state departments.

Recalls First Visit

Both the Lincoln monument and Lincoln home are maintained by the state of Illinois for the benefit of the public. Twenty miles northwest of Springfield is New Salem State Park where Lincoln spent a part of his early youth before moving to Springfield.

Governor Stratton likes to recall his first visit to the Lincoln shrines in Springfield. "As a young boy I remember the great thrill I got when my father and mother brought me to Springfield for the first time and we visited the Lincoln monument and Lincoln home," the governor explained to a group of visitors recently.

"My family and I often visit these shrines now," he continued. "It is my hope that everyone in Illinois will sometime visit them. I never fail to feel an inspirational uplift when we visit the monument."

Lincoln's stature as one of the world's great men seems to grow with the years," Governor Stratton added. "Visitors to Lincoln's monument continue to increase annually. Last year more than 420,000 persons visited the monument." Springfield also is the site of the Illinois State Fair. This year, on its 102nd anniversary, the fair will open August 13 and continue thru August 22.

Other trips suggested for motorists this week in connection with the "See Illinois Now" program,

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Marion county jail today housed what is probably the "biggest" law violator in its history.

The prisoner, Roland Dulin, 25, Indianapolis, weighed in at 625 pounds as he began a seven-month sentence for an unlicensed liquor sale. Jail officials figured they might trim his figure a bit before he was released.

Durocher is All Smiles as Giants Sign Paul Giel

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—New York Giants Manager Leo Durocher
was all smiles today about his latest acquisition, pitcher Paul Giel, and immediately said he had the trait which "made all great Giants pitchers."

"He has a low fast ball," Durocher
said. "You've got to have
that in the Polo Grounds because
of those short foul lines."

"They can belt you all over the field down the middle," Leo said,
"but you've got to have a low ball
pitcher to keep them from lifting
them down the foul lines."

Giel, the 21-year-old pitcher who gained more collegiate fame in football than baseball as the Big Ten's top halfback, had been sought
by several professional grid teams
but he said he made up his mind
some time ago to play baseball.

"I decided on baseball a long time ago," he said, "although a couple of Canadian football teams
made me such good offers I had to consider them. I have no regrets about leaving football; you can play both."

Time Running Out For Yankees To Swing Deal

NEW YORK (AP)—Time is running out on the New York Yankees
in their determined bid to swing
a deal that might help win a sixth straight pennant and Manager
Casey Stengel is just about reconciled to going along with what he has.

In each of the past five world
championship seasons the Yankees
had only to wield the big bankroll,
place a few expendable players on the trading market, or call up talent from their extensive farm
system in order to get the man
they needed.

But this year the farm teams
have little or nothing and American League rivals are reluctant to give up players that may aid
in prolonging the Yankee monopoly.

With less than six days to the June 15 trading deadline, General Manager George Weiss concedes prospects are slim.

Need Shortstop, Pitcher

"It's beginning to look like we won't be able to swing a deal,"
growled Stengel in the Yankee dugout Wednesday. "Why, you should see what these guys are asking for humpty-dumpty players. I've got guys on my bench who are better than those we're being offered."

The Yankees need a shortstop
who can divide the job with Phil
Rizzuto, and another pitcher.

Ruling out inaccessible stars, the Yankees are seeking solid players who can help them. To get what they want, the world champs can offer first baseman Eddie Robinson, outfielder Bob Cerv, and pitchers Bob Kuzava, Tom Gorman and Jim McDonald. They also might toss infielder Gil McDougald, first baseman Joe Collins or outfielder Hank Bauer.

But being shrewd businessmen,
Weiss and Stengel are demanding dollar-for-dollar value. And they'd rather string along with what they have than be "held up" in a deal.

Looking AT Sports

By ED KIRKPATRICK

We talked with genial Bob Far-
ris, who just last week resigned
his cage post at Galatia high school where he has tutored for the past three seasons. Farris has no definite coaching positions in mind for the future but hopes to land a berth where he can be assistant in football and head up the hardwood program. This summer, Farris will be working toward his master's degree at Indiana university in Bloomington.

Farris says there is a possibility that he will continue at Indiana university in the fall, completing his work on the master's. However, he does not contemplate doing this if a good coaching position opens up for him. Bob adds that he and the family have made
many wonderful friends in Galatia and southeastern Illinois and are looking forward to keeping in contact with them. The Farris will be moving from Galatia shortly.

Farris-coached teams at Galatia have compiled an enviable record during the past three years.
Bob took over in the fall of 1951 as successor to George Iubelt, who had moved to West Frankfort. He has piloted the Bearcats to a total of 57 victories in 78 games. Under Farris' direction, the teams won
18 and lost seven the first year,
19 and 7 the second and 20 and 7
the third.

The Galatia cagers set an outstanding record in Greater Egyptian conference play, winning 42
of 48 games for Farris. They also won three straight conference tournaments, finished first in the conference race and second the other two years. The longest losing streak sustained by the Bearcats during the Farris reign lasted just two games. And in every tournament in which the Bearcats played, they either won it or lost to the team that eventually captured the crown.

Farris himself participated in sports at Johnston City high school, under Ralph Davison, former IHS coach. Later, after a stint with the Navy, he attended Southern Illinois university and was graduated from there in 1950.

The Register sports staff join with his many other friends in wishing him the best in new under-takings.

Rain Halts Play In Kiwanis Leagues For Second Day

Rain halted play in the Kiwanis leagues again yesterday for the second consecutive day. After one game was won by a forfeit, 9-0,
by the Sahara Coals, the second contest was halted after four innings of play, thus halting a no-
hitter by Clark of Pankey Bakers,
who for four innings had hurled
no-hit ball against Ronnie's Studio.
This game and other games which were rained out will be rescheduled
at a later date.

All managers are urged to turn
in their signed player contracts
as soon as possible. Those teams that have not showed up for games
and do not intend to play should notify Ronnie Doerge at Ronnie's

ule is made up.

Haddix Hurls Three-Hit, 3-0 Shutout Over Dodgers; Seventh Victory in Row

By CARL LUNDQUIST

The deflated Dodgers wondered
if still new horrors were in store for them today in St. Louis, where first they were brought back to earth by "The Man" and "The Moon," then mauled out of their undisputed hold on first place by
"The Kitten."

It amounted to two-way may-
hem. Harvey Haddix, the little fellow they call "Kitten," took over Wednesday night and silenced the Dodgers with a three-hit, 3-0 shutout that gave him his ninth victory
and his seventh in a row.

The Giants moved into a first-place tie with the Dodgers at Milwaukee on Johnny Antonelli's 4-0
seven-hit win over his old Braves
team mates. The National league race was tightened all the way
as third place Philadelphia moved to within two games of the top with 4-0 and 14-6 victories at Chicago
and the fifth-place Cards, who are 4-1-2 games out of the lead, moved to within half a game of fourth place Milwaukee. Cincinnati, only 5-1-2 games out in sixth place, kept pace with a 4-3 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Chicago Stays on Top

In the American, Chicago stayed
on top by a game with a victory
by Bob Keegan. Cleveland was right behind with a 1-0 five-hit triumph by Mike Garcia over Washington. The Yankees stayed 4-1-2 games behind in third by beating Detroit, 5-1, and Boston edged Baltimore, 7-6.

The Dodgers had a 10-game winning streak when Stan (The Man)
Musial and Wally Moon cracked
them up by batting in four runs apiece in a 10-3 victory. Haddix followed through by winning his seventh game in a row and becoming the first lefty to beat the Dodgers this season. Ray Jablonski set the hitting pace this time, taking over the N. L. batting lead at
.387, two points ahead of Musial.

Antonelli turned in his third shutout and his second victory over his old Milwaukee mates. It was his eighth victory. Lefty ace Warren Spahn was charged with his fifth loss.

Phil's Get Shutout

The Phils breezed to a shutout
victory behind Murry Dickson at Chicago as Gran Hamner set the hitting pace with a triple, double,
single and walk. In the second game when the Phils made 19 hits Willie Jones hit two home runs
and Hamner, Stan Lopata and Bob
Morgan hit homers. In the night-

KNOW YOUR FORMER NEIGHBORS Dr. Frank E. Wiedemann to Receive Honors Tonight for 60 Years Continuous Service

Former Local Man
Cancels All Medical
Bills at Terre Haute

Today is honor day for Dr. Frank E. Wiedemann, 81-year-old native of Harrisburg, for 60 years ago today, at the age of 21, Dr. Wiedemann began his practice of medicine in Terre Haute, Ind.

And tonight, in recognition of that sixty years of continuous service in his chosen profession, Dr. Wiedemann's alma mater, the Rush Medical school, University of Chicago, will honor him at the University of Chicago Alumni banquet being held at the Shoreland hotel, Chicago.

Sixty continuous years of medical service in one particular community is an outstanding record in itself, but Dr. Wiedemann has added to this distinction the feat of having never been absent from his office due to illness. Moreover, he has been a pioneer in some of the present day surgical techniques.

According to his son, Virchow Webner Wiedemann, the veteran doctor is cancelling all medical indebtednesses, as of today—June 10, 1954, in commemoration of this sixtieth anniversary.

Born in Harrisburg, June 29, 1872, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wiedemann, he was one of five children. A brother, H. E. Wiedemann, a chemist in St. Louis, is still living, but the parents, two sisters—Mrs. C. E. Joyner and Ada Wiedemann—and a brother, W. L. A. Wiedemann, have passed away. Mrs. Charles S. Boicourt, daughter of the late Mrs. Joyner and a prominent Harrisburg resident, is a niece. Numerous other more distant relatives also live in this community.

Frank Wiedemann grew to manhood in Harrisburg, attending the East Side school—then the only one in the town—through all the grades it had to offer. Afterwards he entered Southern Normal at Carbondale with his boyhood chum and pal, H. T. Towle Sr. Mr. Towle recalls that their tuition in those days was $3.00 a semester, provided that the enrollee signified his intentions of becoming a teacher.

This everyone did as a matter of course, Mr. Towle relates, as money was mighty scarce in those days. Towle also recalls that Frank and he were inseparable buddies in those days, attending school and enjoying camping expeditions together.

The old Wiedemann homestead stood on the present site of the Weaver service station, East Poplar street, and the elder Mr. Wiedemann operated a general store, but specializing in shoes. This store was located in a building approximately on the spot of the present Scten Furniture store.

Following his completion of the schooling offered at Normal, young Wiedemann entered Rush Medical school and was graduated from there in the Spring of 1894. After graduation, he opened his offices in Terre Haute and was lost to Harrisburg, save through his occasional visits with relatives here and his fond memories of boyhood days.

The old Rose Dispensary building was erected in Terre Haute shortly after young Dr. Wiedemann commenced his practice there, and he moved into the building as one of its first tenants. He has continued his office in the same building and in the same rooms ever since.

The good doctor is recalled as having had the first electric automobile in Terre Haute and one of the first gasoline buggies.

During his younger days he was very active in the various medical societies. He is a former president of the Vigo County Medical society. He is an honorary member of the Indiana State Medical society and an honorary member of the American Medical society.

A constant student of his profession, he has studied in scores of universities throughout the United States and Canada, supplementing this with studies in some of the great universities of Europe. He has also done special observation work in the universities, hospital and medical centers throughout the world.

A world traveler, Dr. Wiedemann has been around the globe and through the heart of every continent including Africa, Asia, Australia and South America.

He has prepared, read and had published numerous articles dealing with medicine and with his world travels. He has worked closely with various literary societies in Terre Haute and over the State of Indiana. He has lectured frequently before student and staff groups at Terre Haute's two colleges, Indiana State and Rose Polytechnic.

Dr. Wiedemann was one of the pioneers in X-ray, having assembled one of the first X-ray machines in America as early as 1896. He was successful in completing one of the very first x-ray pictures. He was also a pioneer in suggesting the value of music to medicine.

Also of interest is the fact that he, along with three other doctors, performed one of the very early successful Caesarean operations in Indiana. This occurred in 1896.

Dr. Wiedemann's first wife bore him three sons, whom they named Rudolph, Virchow and Theodore. Mrs. Wiedemann died some twenty years ago and two of the sons, Rudolph and Theodore, have also passed away. Virchow or Webner as he is better known here, is general agent for the Equitable Life Insurance Co. of Iowa in San Francisco, Calif. Dr. Wiedemann also has eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. In later years, he married again and his present wife, Leah, will be in Chicago with him tonight when he receives his well deserved recognition.

We know that all citizens of Harrisburg—both those who knew him and those who know him not—are very proud and very humbled by the accomplishments of this native son. The Daily Register would speak for all, then, in extending congratulations and the very best of good wishes to Dr. Frank E. Wiedemann on this his day of honor.

Parents Discuss Classes for Mental Handicapped

A fairly large crowd was present Tuesday evening at the Dorrisville school for the meeting of parents of mentally handicapped children.

Mrs. Aaron Dudley, newly elected president, presided over the meeting which opened with prayer by Rev. Robert Winegarden, pastor of the Nazarene church and a member of the parents' group. He also sang "Take My Hand Precious Lord."

A retired school teacher, Vernon Smith, recited a fitting poem entitled "The Builders."

The speaker, Burdette Thurman, speech correctionist of the city schools, explained and discussed the organization of classes for retarded children who are trainable and gave a report on other parent groups, how they were set up and operated. He stated that the state does not allow any funds for this program and that other groups in operation are financed by parents, membership dues, tuition, bake sales, silver teas and contributions from organizations and friends.

He stressed the importance of having a well trained teacher and added that a teacher who has had some experience in teaching country schools would be very helpful. Any teacher however would have to be approved by Russell Malan, superintendent of schools.

The school board will furnish the use of a room and perhaps some equipment and would pay an equal amount per child that is paid for the regular pupil," he said.

Temporary officers were elected and are as follows: president, Mrs. Aaron Dudley; vice president, Mrs. Virgil McClusky; secretary, Mrs. Anthony Blass; and treasurer, Mrs. Geneva Mitchell.

The meeting was closed by Rev. Winegarden who sang "God Tomorrow."

A fellowship hour followed in the cafeteria. Mrs. Layton Aldridge and Mrs. Merle Holland served refreshments to the parents and friends.

Contributions will be accepted by the treasurer, Mrs. Mitchell, at 119 South Water street.

Scandinavian Aerial Aces in Shrine Circus

Boy meets girl in many strange ways. Take the case of Ernst and Lola Rhodin, two Scandinavian aerialists, recent arrivals from Sweden and currently in their first American tour.

They met in a tailor shop in Ryslinge, Denmark. With a minimum of nervous tension she followed him from the tailor shop to seventh heaven. In this case seventh heaven is located 100 feet up in the air and consists of a trapeze extended from a whip-arm atop a gleaming steel mast.

Rhodin, a renowned aerialist, had gone to the tailor shop to have a costume repaired. Lola was the clerk. It was love at first sight between the Swedish performer and the little Danish girl.

Ernst Rhodin had his troubles. His partner in a high aerial act was scared and careless and often appeared at show time with one too many under his belt. There had been near accidents a couple of times.

Lola had been an acrobat. But from there to the top of a 100-foot-high structure, the step was long in more ways than one.

They were married six years ago. Since then they have practically lived atop their heaven.

Their act will be a headline attraction of Tom Packs' Southern Illinois Shrine Circus, sponsored by Aina Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S. and the Shrine Clubs of Southern Illinois, which will play in Harrisburg, June 16.

Billy Choate, Now 90, Reminisces of Choate's Comedians, Popular Tent Show

By Alta Porter

Broadway hits which run for a year or two are exceptional, but occasionally a show like "Okla-homa" has a long run. What Oklahoma has been to the legitimate theatre, Choate's Comedians were to the "sticks" when drama under canvas was the stock entertainment for summer evenings in southern Illinois and nearby states.

Before the erection of "drive in" theatres in southern Illinois Harrisburg would have two or three tent shows in a summer and one of the favorites playing the old three act melodramas with vaudeville specialties between acts was one known as Choate's Comedians.

William C. Choate of Tunnel Hill was the owner. Mr. Choate who started out at 15 with a punch and judy show continued in the tent show business for about 60 years. He is now 90 and has been retired from show business for 15 years.

The only show prop that he has held onto in his retirement, is his violin. The violin goes with him, wherever he lives, and with it and his amusing patter from tent show days he enlivens the days for the aged people living at Hill's rest home on West Marion street, in Marion.

Spotlessly clean and neat, like his tent show, the old showman waits for the final curtain. He was found sitting in his room at the rest home. It is a spacious room in a large old fashioned high ceilinged two-story house with a large front porch, at the east end of which his room is located. The day was a little cool and he wore a knitted scarf about his neck. Mr. Choate is tall, and thin, and a little hard-of-hearing, but there is nothing dull about his memory or mentality. He quickly recalls the years and brightly tallies the names of those with whom he has been associated.

He ran away from the farm at the age of 15 to hit the tent show trail. He didn't run away because of a cruel parent. Quite the contrary. It was the kindness of his father that led Billy Choate to pitch a show tent in the first place. He ran away because his father was a farmer and wanted him to be a farmer and he wanted more to be a showman.

Tony White, owner of a Punch and Judy show who fled from the South because of yellow fever, arrived at Tunnel Hill on his way north, broke and with his puppet show in hock.

Tony was an honest appearing lad and the senior Mr. Choate loaned him $50 to redeem his tents and puppets. To repay this loan Tony got Billy to help him put on a show. They rented a hall for two nights and with the profit from performances White repaid Mr. Choate.

Traveling in a mule team drawn wagon to Carmi, White messaged young Choate to come and help him again and it was then that the 15-year-old Johnson county farm boy forsook the plough for ever. He remained with White three months and then joined a small circus.

In two or three weeks the circus owner went broke and Billy Choate, who had thrif- tily held on to his earnings, made a deal with the acrobats and tumblers to remain with him, if he could buy the circus tent, which he did. With this small circus troop Choate's shows began performances in southern Illinois, which became annual events in the various towns.

At 25 Billy Choate, who had spent his winters on the farm in Johnson county, married a childhood sweetheart, Mary Elizabeth Webb. They had four children, two of whom are living, Ed Choate, who resides on South Buchanan street in Marion and is a retired hoisting engineer, and Artie Choate, motion picture show owner at Wayne City.

His first wife died quite young and he married Martha Philanda Burklow, also of Johnson county. She died three years ago, since when he has been living in boarding houses for the aged, first at Creal Springs, where they had a small home and where the death of Martha Philanda occurred, and now at Marion.

Both of his wives travelled with him in the show business and helped on the lot, selling tickets and sometimes acting on the stage. Billy himself did a song and dance act, and directed a six or seven piece orchestra which traveled with the dramatic troupe. He had fiddled by ear before he joined the show. Realizing the inadequacy of his fiddling he "got with people who taught him to read notes" and play much better. Sometimes this was by hiring a teacher who was also a member of the tent show band.

Johnny Deats was one of his musicians who became widely known. Robert LaFay and his wife were a husband and wife team who also became rather noted as actors and as magicians. Most of the actors were married couples, Mr. Choate said.

That his shows had a reputation for cleanliness was due to eternal vigilance on his part in the selection of personnel. He, himself, is a member of the Christian church and he made it a practice to go to church on Sunday morning, wherever the show happened to be. That would be the day the show arrived in the town where it would appear the following week and they had all day Monday to set up the show, Mr. Choate said.

A banjo player, who is 79 years of age, and is a retired barber who formerly played for many public entertainments is also a boarder in the Hill rest home. He is Thad Hudspeth, who used to play with the Choate Comedians orchestra, when the show came to Marion.

On July 26, Mr. Choate will be 91 years of age. Born while Lincoln was president, and when medicine shows and puppet shows were exciting events in southern Illinois, he brought to the area wholesome dramatic entertainment. He has lived to see the traveling stock company almost disappear from the entertainment world, after having for many years a two-railway car show. From horse drawn wagons, to rail transportation and then to truck transportation, he stayed with the business, which he finally turned over to a son, who longed to be in one place and to own a home.

This son, Artie, fell heir to the show and sold it to buy a motion picture theatre. Now motion pictures are all right, and the drive-in theatre with its outdoor screen, pony rides and concession stands have much of the atmosphere of casual gaiety of the old tent show. For a nostalgic whiff of popcorn and hamburger and onions, Mr. Choate finds them entertaining. They just don't have the attraction for developing hidden talent that the old three-act "mellers" had. But, he sighs, "Them days are gone forever."

Two Sons of FDR on New Political Trails

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 10.—Two of Franklin D. Roosevelt's four sons were on new political trails today, one of them definitely with his eye on the White House.

Forty-six year old James A. Roosevelt, FDR's eldest son, easily won Tuesday's Democratic nomination for Congress from California's heavily Democratic 24th District. He failed by a wide margin to win the Republican nomination which he also had sought under the state's system of cross-filing in primary contests. He will be opposed by Theodore R. Owings, a Republican novice.

In New York, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. is campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Never Short of Ambition
It is much too early to suggest that brother Jimmy is dreaming of the presidency to which his father was elected four successive times. But he's a Roosevelt and never has been short of ambition.

With FDR Jr. it is another story. In view of the background, Republican and Democratic, of the clan, any Roosevelt who seeks to be governor of the state of New York is most likely to have higher office in mind. Theodore Roosevelt went from New York's governorship to the White House, detouring briefly through the vice presidency. The Roosevelt made it direct.

Franklin Jr. has a long lead on his elder brother. He entered national politics in 1949 by giving the Democratic organization in New York City a licking not soon forgotten. Democratic leaders had refused to back him for the Democratic nomination in a special election to fill a vacancy in the 20th District.

Young Roosevelt—he was 34 at the time—accepted the nominations of the Liberal and Four Freedoms parties and in a four-way race won a clear majority over his opponents. He twice has been re-elected. Franklin Jr. is a left-wing Democrat, a national officer of the effective New Deal organization known as Americans for Democratic Action.

He is actively campaigning New York now for support in the Democratic state convention which will meet Sept. 21 to nominate, among others, a candidate for governor. New York governors have been nominated for President four times in the past 26 years. What Franklin Jr. has in mind is fairly obvious. If he is nominated his Republican opponent very likely will be Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, although Dewey has made no announcement.

Brother Jimmy won California's Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1950 but lost out badly to Earl Warren, now the Chief Justice of the United States.

Both boys are sound geographically. New York state has the greatest number of electoral votes. California is tied with Pennsylvania for second place with 32.

The other Roosevelt boys, Elliott and John, have not sought public office. John, a recent White House dinner guest, will speak here Friday at a National Citizens for Eisenhower Conference. His subject: "Why Democrats should vote for a Republican Congress to back the President's program."

LARGE CROWD PRESENT AT CENTENNIAL OF BIG SALINE CHURCH

The homecoming at Big Saline church was well attended Sunday and we're proud to celebrate the 100th year of the church.

A large group was present for Sunday school and morning worship. Rev. Matthew Roberts, pastor of the church, delivered the morning message and at noon a basket dinner was spread on long tables on the church lawn. The tables were loaded with a bountiful supply of food. While everyone was enjoying the dinner people were meeting new friends and reminiscing with old ones.

In the afternoon Rev. Clayton Humphrey rendered a most impressive sermon. The text was "The Keys to the Kingdom."

The Boys of Little Egypt quartet were present and conducted the song service. They sang several beautiful numbers and Junior Rice sang a solo.

A testimonial meeting was held and several who had moved away and were former members of the church made talks. Mrs. Scott Younger, one of the oldest former members, was present. Uncle France Reynolds, father of Rev. Roy Reynolds, was present and was the oldest person present. Although he was not a member of the church he is remembered as a faithful worker of the church in past years. Mrs. Fannie Driskell was the oldest member present. Roll call was given by the clerk, Mrs. Pearl Mattingly, and sadness was felt in the absence of Uncle Bob Taylor and Gwin Davis, who have passed away since the homecoming a year ago.

Six ministers were present, namely Rev. Matthew Roberts, Rev. Francis Cole, Rev. Roy Reynolds, Rev. Ellis Pankey, Rev. John Yuhus and Rev. Clayton Humphrey.

The meeting closed with the song, "Amazing Grace," and an old fashioned handshake. Rev. Yuhus gave the benediction.

STREET ROD

Ricky Madison, 16, sat at the Dellville Drug soda fountain, slowly sipping a soda through a straw. His elbows rested on the counter, his palms supporting—and hiding—his thin brown face.

"Come on, Rick," Link Aller ordered harshly. "We ain't got all day."

Ricky spoke without lifting his mouth from the straw. "I told you I wasn't going."

"Aaaaaa..." Link lifted his fist as though to hit Ricky in disgust, but merely pushed his straight black hair back from his narrow, sullen face.

Chub Turner punched Ricky's arm playfully. He was a round-faced, pink-cheeked fat boy. "Don't be crazy," he coaxed. "Everybody wants to go swimming on a hot day like this. It's human nature."

"You guys can go," Ricky said without turning. "You don't need me."

Chub began pacing up and down. Link stood staring at Ricky's back as though he wanted to attack him. Jerry Long, a well-knit, handsome boy with wavy reddish-brown hair, stood by the door talking to the four girls who were going.

Big Sherm Lucas was the only one who took no part in the argument. As usual his husky body was perched on a counter stool as he lost himself in following the plot of a comic-book story.

Jerry left the girls and went to Ricky's side. "Ride with me, Rick," he said quietly.

Ricky spun around on the stool, his brown eyes hot with anger. "I don't want to ride with anybody," he yelled. "Can't you get that through your thick heads? Why don't you leave me alone? If I want to go swimming I can get there by myself!"

The fellows were silent. They knew what was wrong with Ricky, but there wasn't anything they could do to help. They understood, and they didn't mind.

Ricky looked toward the girls. Everyone had asked him to go swimming but Sharon Bruce. The one person he would have said yes to. She stood by the door dressed in white shorts and a white T-shirt, carrying a white towel. Her arms and legs were tanned dusky by the sun, her hair was light brown, her wide eyes gray-green. There was a sprinkle of light freckles across the tip of her small straight nose, her teeth were white and even, her lower lip soft and full. Ricky would do anything for her she asked. But she never asked. The way she acted, it was as though he didn't exist. She looked over him, around him, through him. But never at him. It drove him wild.

"Rick," Link Aller said slowly, wanting his words to hurt, "if you want a car of your own, so bad, why don't you buy one?"

"My folks won't..." Ricky said defensively.

"Do what I did," Link challenged, moving closer to Ricky. "When I wanted a car I just said I was going to have one. My old man said I couldn't have it. So I told him if I couldn't have one at home, I'd leave home, find a job and buy one anyway. He didn't want me to leave, so I got the car."

Link walked out and the others followed. Jerry paused at Ricky's side a moment, as though to ask Ricky once more to ride along, but the look on Ricky's face made him change his mind. "See you later, Rick," he said, and went on.

"Yeah," Ricky answered bitterly. The screen door banged closed after them. Ricky turned and put his head in his hands, listening. He heard the car doors slam, and then, one by one the motors started. He knew them by heart. They all carried straight pipes, but there was a difference in the way each motor sounded, a difference that was under the deep, powerful roar. He listened, riding with them as they backed away from the curb, turned, and thundered away toward the lake without him.

Now he was sorry he hadn't gone. He'd hung around with Link and Chub and Jerry and Sherm since they'd been in kindergarten, but there was no sense kidding himself. It was different now. They had their own rods, and he—had his bike.

He found what he wanted and carried it back to where he had been sitting. It was a magazine about sports cars. Ricky's heart almost burst with longing as he looked at the lucky people who posed in their Jaguars, Cunningshams, Nash Healeys, Lancias, Alfas and Ferraris.

Someday, with his own hands he would design and build that car. A car that would shame anything Detroit ever turned out, that would make other custom jobs look sick.

The screen door at the front of the drugstore squeaked as it was pulled open. Ricky looked up quickly, with hope that they had come back for him. It was only Arnie VanZuik, the fat old man who had been Dellville's police force for 30 years.

Fat, good-natured Arnie, with his tremendous belly, his square face, and the clear blue eyes that looked out through ridiculously tiny rimless glasses. Shiny blue pants, a gray shirt open at the neck and soaked dark with sweat, a blue police cap that perched on top of his head, and almost hidden by the overhang of his huge belly, his belt and gun.

"Hot," he said hoarsely. There was no complaint in his voice. He said it like news.

"It's good weather for corn," Ricky said, suddenly angry. "That's all you hear every time it gets too hot for people. You'd think there wasn't anybody else in Iowa but farmers."

Arnie reached across the counter, got a glass, and filled it with carbonated water.

"Everybody gone to swim?" Ricky nodded.

"Lucky young people," Arnie sighed. "You don't go to swim?"

"No car," Ricky said.

"You could ride with the others," Arnie said. "You could be a car suck all the time."

"It shouldn't be hard on a day like this," Arnie said chuckling. "One of these days," Ricky said grimly, "I'm getting me a car of my own. I've got the money."

Arnie took off his police cap and wiped his forehead. "Your papa will let you have a car? I don't think so, Ricky."

The moment the words were out Arnie felt like kicking himself. He saw Ricky wince, and the suborn, defiant look that came into his eyes. "Maybe I won't ask him," Ricky said.

"You take my advice," Arnie said, hitching up his pants. "Save your money, stay home, and let some more car suck. Later you can buy something good, not some piece of junk."

Dellville was built around a square. Around the square were the usual stores. The drug store, the hardware store, the dime store, the combination city hall and jail, the clothing store, the movie house. On a corner, the small red bank where his father worked.

The front door of the bank opened and Ricky, emerging from the drugstore, saw his father come out on his way home to lunch. Ricky started toward him, meeting him halfway and, turning, fell in step with his father.

They walked on a bit in silence. "Sure is hot," Mr. Madison said again. "I'd think you'd be swimming on a day like this. I saw your friends driving out toward the lake. Didn't you want to go along?"

"Who wouldn't?"

"Why didn't you go? You didn't have a fight with them or anything, did you?"

"No. There wasn't any fight. They asked me to go along."

"I'm glad they did. Why didn't you go?"

Ricky lifted his head for a moment and then looked down again. "I didn't have any way to get there."

"But they... Now look here, Ricky, there's no sense going into

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Throughout Illinois at this time of year, schools are closing for the summer vacation, and youngsters who have been safely behind classroom doors a good part of the day will now be spending a great deal more time out of doors.

They won't be concentrated around school playgrounds as they have been the last few months. Now, whenever you are driving through a city, a town or a suburban area, there is a constant danger that some child, intent upon enjoying his summer freedom to its fullest extent, may dart out in front of your car unexpectedly.

They won't be protected or restrained at street crossings by schoolboy patrols or police. They are on their own. And in their world, the next two minutes are millions of years away.

It's up to you to do the thinking ahead for them. That means, besides keeping a sharp lookout at all times, traveling at such a speed that you can come to a complete stop before the thoughtlessness of a child brings tragedy to both you and him.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.
